Lemman, tue suest of honor (Mrs. Carpenter), and wiss Lenthan's Rag Party. No anair is quite complete without its meen of dancing, to great is the craze for tango and one-step. 'theretore it is not surprising that miss Katherine Lemman's party at Fort suarter was devoted mostly to ragging. Guessing games and contests or various sorts occupied part of the evening, nowever, prizes going to Lieut. W. C. kose and Lieut. Cari Haruigg. In addition to the young people of the popular infantry posts, a numper of guests from town were includ ed in the list of those present.

Lieut. Baxter's Dinner. Lieut, Charles R. Baxter of Fort Kamehameha was host at a delightful dinner last evening! at the Young hotel. 'The aftair, though highly informal, was beautifully appointed in every respect. Among those present were Capt. and Mrs. Clifford Jones, Capt. and Mrs. G. A. Taylor, Miss Katherine Winans, Miss Betty Case, Major F. W. Coe, Lieut. E. S. Kelly and Lieut, C. W. Jenkins.

Wednesday Bridge Club. Mrs. Charles L'Hommedien was hostess this week for the Wednesday Bridge Club. Battle was merrily waged across two tables in her pretty home in Manca valley, prizes-dainty gold hatpins-eventually going to Mahaffey. Toothsome refreshments were then served. On this occasion the players were Mrs. G. F. Humbert Mrs. Birch O. Mahaffey, Mrs. Nelson Lansing, Ers. Frank Hoogs, Mrs. Walter Kendall, Miss Florence Hoffman Miss Sara Lucas and the hostess.

Capt. and Mrs. Lincoln's Dinner. One of the prettiest and most elabo her on Thursday given by Capt. and Mrs. C. S. Lincoln at the Country Club. The club house dining room was converted into a bower of amethyst colored bougainvillea and ferns. The long table at which the score of guests were seated was adorned with large French baskets, filled with white Shasta daisies and caught with huge bows c: green tulle. Dainty white almond dishes were also tied with the fluffy green tulle. Pretty feminine heads were used for place cards. After dinper the time was devoted to dancing and bridge. Among those invited were Major and Mrs. E. V. Smith, Capt. and Mrs. Robert McCleave, Capt. and Mrs. Lieut, and Mrs. F. P. Jackson, Cant. He Witt Chamberlain, Col. and Mre.
